A. B. 33 WANTS $10,000 OR WILL COME WITH DYNAMITE.

He Writes a Long Letter Bescribing Mr. Gould's Recent Movements Minutely, and Beaute that He Can Get at Him-The For tune Teller Who Has Been Writing to Miss Helen Could Is In Bellevue.

A professed dynamiter is threatening Mr. Jay Gould now and wants that gentleman to pay him $10,000 or thereabouts or suffer instant death. This man signs himself "A. B 33," and there is reason to believe that he is not one of the ordinary sort of cranks. One acquaintance of Mr. Gould's family declared inst night that the man had succeeded in alarming the members of the family, and Mr Edwin Gould himself admits that the family is alarmed.

A letter from A. B. 33 was received by Mr. Jay Gould seven or eight days ago. It was very long. It began away back in 1868, at the night of the Erie clique with Commodore Vanderbilt. It followed the railroad king's career down to the present day.

Finally the writer said: "I know how to get near you," and to prove that he did he detailed the goings and comings not only of Mr. Gould but of his family. This read like the report of a detective shadow. Every movement of the members of the family, visits to the opera, calls on friends, business visits, where Mr. Gould ate, and what he ate, whom he saw during a day, and all that for three

Then the writer went on to say that if the money was not forthcoming dynamite would certainly be thrown under Mr. Gould's carecrtainly be thrown under Mr. Gould's carriage when he took a drive, and it would not fail to explode and blow him up.

The letter contained instructions about sending the money. It was to go to a certain Post Office in Canada.

The man who gave to a Buw reporter the substance of the contents of this letter, as given above, said that the writer had disguised his handwriting to look much like German seriot.

"He is, without doubt," said the informant

"He is, without doubt," said the informant,
"a man of education, sharp and shrewd, and some one who is very likely acquainted with Mr. Gould, or who has been acquainted with him, and, therefore, is in a position to know of the things he tells about."

Mr. Edwin Gould was seen by a reporter about the arrest of a crank calling himself Prinz von Michaels, who had an insane idea that he could marry Miss Helen Gould. This man, young Mr. Gould said, was harmiess.

"The man we are afraid of," he said, "is a fellow who calls himself 'A. B. 33. He is cunning and industrious, and unusually persistent. Of course hundreds of cranks send letters to father, but very few of them fall into his hands. A. B. 33 succeeded in sending a letter to father a week ago which has worried us all very much. The crank wrote that he had been watching our movements and our house very closely and carefully for the preceding week.
His letter described our movements accurateity. That is just what alarmed us. Then he went on that he must really have a few thousand dollars or he would blow us all up with dynamite. He carried this dynamite in his hat, he explained. 'I know how to get near you, he explained, and if you don't send me a few thousand dollars i will certainly throw my hat full of dynamite under, your carriage and will blow you all to atoms.'

Inspector Byrnes, it is understood, has three men at work looking for A. B. 33, although he will not admit it. The men are said to be De-

Will blow you all to atoms."

Inspector Byrnes, it is understood, has three men at work looking for A. B. 33, although he will not admit it. The men are said to be Detective Sergeants Crowley. Titus, and McCloskey. One, and maybo two of these men have been sent to Canada to the Post office address mentioned in this letter, with instructions to follow that clue to the end. The man was undoubtedly in New York when he wrote the letter.

was undoubtedly in New York when he wrote the letter.

Dr. Munn, Mr. Gould's physician, was asked last night for an opinion as to who the writer of the letter was. He professed not to know anything about the letter, and he was very certain, he said, that Mr. Gould himself was not irightened at the threats. "He goes out alone for walks and to business," said the Doctor. "He has no body guard, no detectives hovering near him, and he is not in the least afraid."

Dr. Munn would not say whether or not be

Dr. Munn would not say whether or not he knew there were detectives stationed in the Windsor Hotel watching Mr. Gould's house, which is right across the street, but that one thing Inspector Byrnes did say—that there thing Inspector Byrnes did say—that there were not.

Mr. Edwin Gould was in the Yorkville Court yesterday morning with Detective Sergoant Mc-Closkey. He was to appear as complainant, if necessary, against Prinz Von Michaels, who was arraigned by Policeman Sandhelmer. Prinz Von Michaels is a crank, who thinks he is in love with Miss Helen Gould. He has been writing letters to her and making a nuisance of himself for a week or more. Early on Saturday morning he called at the house of Mr. Gould's next door neighbor. Dr. Henry's house, and rang the bell. Ratte, the maid, answered. He asked her if she didn't want to have her fortune told, and she told him to go to the basement door, which he did. Then he told her who he was, and said he could tell her fortune by phrenology, by palmistry, or by cards if she would tet him come in. She wouldn't tet him come in, but she let him read her fortune from would let him come in. She wouldn't let him come in, but she let him read her fortune from the paim of her hand, held out through the iron gate. He got to talking wildly before he had finished, and finally declared abruptly:

"I want a wife. Say, don't you want to get married? Ain't you Helon Gould?"

The girl got frightened and ran into the house. Michaels went away and came back again in an hour. Another maid answered his ring and he poked a long, pink envelope at her and said:

house. Michaels went away and came back again in an hour. Another maid answered his ring and he poked a long, pink envelope at her and said:

"Here, you, give this to the girl I was talking to awhile ago."

The girl wouldn't take it. "You give it to her to give to Helen Gould," he insisted, and then she told him Helen Gould lived next door and slammed the door in his face. She told Dr. Henry about it, and he sent his son out to tell a policeman. Policeman Sondheimer was atound the corner. He had seen Michaels, and in half an hour saw him making for Mr. Gould's house. The crank started to go up the steps, and the policeman ran up and caught him by the cont.

"Here," he said, "what do you want about here, sny way?"

Michaels turned a pair of innocentleyes on him and said, mildly. "Why, I'm going to see Miss Helen Gould. I'm going to marry her." Sondheimer walked up the steps with his prisoner and went into the vestibule, where he met Georgo Gould and began to explain the matter to him. Michaels looked half starved and fainting and not at all as if he could run, but suddenly he swung around his right arm and swept the big policeman up against the wall. Then he dashed out of the door and down the steps, with the policeman after him. He was captured after a run of two blocks and was taken back. Edwin Gould went with him and the policeman to the station and made a complaint of disorderly conduct.

Some of the things Michaels had in his pocket were a pawn ticket, a big envelope containing a proposal of marriage to "Fair and esteemed young lady," and a lot of handbills with his advertisement as a fortune teller on them.

with his advertisement as a fortune teller on them.

Some one had an idea that Michaels might be the man who visited Russell Sage's house and demanded $2.500 three weeks ago, and who was put out by Mrs. Sage, so in court yesterday the Justice asked him if he had ever visited Mr. Sage. He said he had, but he would not admit that he had threatened to blow up the house.

Policeman Sondheimer made a complaint against Michaels, and thus relieved Mr. Gould. The crank was committed to Bellevue to be examined. At Bellevue it was said that Dr. Munn called at the hospital during the afternoon and saw Michaels. He was very certain that the crank was not the one who visited Mr. Sage's house.

Prinz von Michaels is doubtless a fortunetelling name. The prisoner went by that name, however, at 280 Furman street, Brookips. whershe once lived. He left there a week ago, because he had not a dollar to pay his rent.

LIVE WASHINGTON TOPICAL Congressman Mills Starts for Texas, to be

Goss Three Weeks,

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.-Roger Q. Mills left Washington to-day for Texas, to be absent for three weeks or more. He was accompanied by his son, and they have "gone on a hunting trip," whether for votes or game is not stated. Representative Sayers of Texas will ask in definite leave for his colleague when the House meets on Tuesday. Mr. Sayers says he does not think that Mr. Mille's hasty departure has any bearing on his relations to Speaker Crisp. There are other members, however, who say that the defeated candidate for Speaker has entirely washed his hands of any responsibility for or connection with the programme or business in the House and that his hunting trip is intended to em phasize his disgust at the treatment acc him by the Speaker in the make-up of the committees. It is said, moreover, that Mr. Wise of Virginia will not as Chairman of the Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce until the return of Mr. Mills, who will then resign the Chairmanship to be formally succeeded by the Virginian. There is no defi-nits verification of this statement obtainable to might, but it is made with much positiveness by those who know the facts.

Speaker Crisp's reatoration to health is still annoyingly slow, and he will not preside in the House on Tuesday. He had a long chat to-day with Mr. Catchings, to whom he said positively that he will not be able to preside over the House on Tuesday, and with whom he consulted about the selection of a Speaker pro tem. It is understood that had Mr. Mills remained in the city he would have been the Speaker's choice, but that selection is now out of the question. Experts in parliamentary law of the question. Experts in parliamentary law say that as the House is now acting under general parliamentary law in the absence of rules, that the Clerk must call the House to order and a Speaker pro tem be elected. Messra. McMillin and Springer are the only persons spoken of, and it now looks as though the Tennesseean would be chosen.

A report recently made by Superintend ent Porter to Secretary Noble on the probable cost of taking the eleventh census and the additional appropriations needed to complete the work was made public to-night. In this report Superintendent Porter says:

"I have reason to believe that the census work proper can all be finished and ready for the printer by the close of 1892; and that the total cost, exclusive of printing, and farms, homes, and mortgages, will not exceed $7.000,000, or a trifle over 11 cents per capita, as against a total cost of about $5,000,000, or about 10 cents per capita, for the tenth census, an increase of only one cent. This will finish up the work within the next twelve or, at most, eighteen months, in accordance with the original plan, without a single outright or even partial failure. In brief, the cost of the eleventh census, when completed, exclusive of printing, and farms, homes, and mortgages, will be about one cent per capita more than the tenth, an increase less than the increase between the cost of the ninth and tenth censuses. The printing, as now mapped out, will cost no more, probably less, than the printing of the tenth census." the additional appropriations needed to com-

Mr. Mergies of Indiana, son-in-law of the late Gov. Hovey and a personal and political friend of President Harrison, is said to have friend of President Harrison, is said to have brought about the order remitting the unexpired portion of the sentence of Commander McCalla of the navy. Mr. Merzies returned to Indiana last night, having come to Washington in McCalla's behalf. He was a classmate of McCalla at the Naval Academy, and after graduating resigned his commission to enter Mr. Hovey's law office in Indianapolis. Secretary Tracy, in his review of the findings of the court martial that convicted McCalla, noted the recommendation of eleven of the twelve members of the court for clomency, but refused to interfere. McCalla thereupon moved to Washington, and in a finely furnished house in an aristocratic part of the city entertained during the session of the last Congress, with the obvious intention of securing useful friends who could reach the President. All efforts failed as long as Secretary Tracy held out against him, and the new friends McCalla made and his old ones in the department availed him nothing. Not even Assistant Secretary Soley or Capt Cowless of the late Despatch could move the Secretary for the recommendation which must go to the President, and McCalla went to Europe, apparafity content to await the expiration of his sentence. His absence was closely followed by the advent of Mr. Merzies, who had been associated with Mr. Choate in McCalla's defence before the court martial. Now that the Commander is again on the rolls some duty must be found for him, and the authorities are considering the question of assigning him to the head of the naval intelligence office, from which Commander Chadwick was recently relieved. Naval officers generally were much opposed to this proposition, and they complain that the order of the President remitting the sentence was a flagrant misuse of the pardoning power. brought about the order remitting the unex-

The Board made the point that Book was not entitled to promotion for the reason that he had been sentenced to two years, suspension from duty, which suspension, although removed, was looked upon as interfering with his right to go up to the grade above. Commander Book has waited for a decision. Book is considered as having a good case, in the fact that Secretary Tracy abated the sentence, thereby recognizing the claim of Book to lenioncy. His fault was absence without leave while on duty in Alaska.

The Senate Committee on Elections will take up the Idaho Senate contest, either on the 7th up the Idaho Senate contest, either on the 7th or 11th of this month, the dates to which Mr. Clagett, who is contesting Senator Dubois's seat, asked a postponement. Senator Dubois was elected as a third Senator from Idaho to succeed Judge McConnell, and Mr. Clagett claims that this election was illegal. He has prepared a brief, setting forth his statement of the case, and Senator Dubois has also prepared a pamphlet in which his side of the controversy is elaborately argued. State Senator De Leamer and Mr. John T. Keegan of Idaho, two supporters of Mr. Clagett, have come here from the far-off State to attend the hearing of the gase, while the Hon. Lyttleton Price of Idaho is here to act as counsel for Senator Dubois. Senator Teller says the hearing will be conducted with open doors.

Senator Manderson will make an effort during the coming week in the Senate Committee on Military Affairs to call up Senator Plumb's resolution for the removal of Gen. Grant's remains from New York to Arlington Cemetery. Mr. Manderson believes that Arlington is the proper place for the great soldier to rest. and that there will be little opposition to the projected removal.

While no official information can be secured n regard to the report that the United States Supreme Court had by a vote of six to three decided the contest between Boyd and Thayer for the Governorship of Nebraska in favor of the former, it can be positively asserted that the court will render such a decision. It can also be said, in consequence, that there is sortions trouble ahead for the person or persons who gave out the information before the decision was formally rendered by the court. Chief Justice Fuller yesterday instituted an investigation, which is still in progress, with a view to ferreting out the guilty parties. The opinion of the court in the case was reached last week, at which the question involved was discussed at length and a vote taken. It is learned on trustworthy authority that the notes of the opinion, which were dictated by the Chief Justice to a strongrapher, have not yet been transcribed. Each private secretary to the Associate Justices, as well as a page and messenger, are usually the only persons having access to the private seasons of the court, and the investigation will extend to them. Since the premature announcement and publication of the decision reached by the court the Chief Justice has been in anything but a pleasant frame of mind, and intends to make the culprit suffer for his misdemeanor. Supreme Court had by a vote of six to three

"If you say that Mr. Depew is not responsible for these murders," he shouted, "then who is? It is high time our Government defined clearly who is responsible for life on the public highways of this continent."

Then Mr. Dixon said the New York Central officials should be sent to the penitentiary for accepting fares and starting trains when they knew the road was blocked. He ridiculed the idea of Messrs. Depew, Webb, and Vanderbilt going to the funeral of some of the victims of the Hastings disaster and sending flowers to put on the coffins of those whom they murdered, and said these gentlemen should be tried for their lives.

When the Grand Jury convenes in Westhester county in February, District Attorney Platt will ask for indictments against Brake man Albert Herrick and Train Despatche Augustus Ossman, who were held responsible by the Coroner's Jury for the disaster on the New York Central Bailroad on Christmas Eve at Hastings. An indictment will undoubtedly be found against Herrick, but there is no evi dence of any sort against Ossman, who was at the Grand Central Station at the time of the ac cident, and who was acting under the instruc-tions of his chief superintendent, Daniel B. McCoy, and h's counsel expects that he will be discharged. Mr. McCoy testified at the inquest that Oseman had carried out his instructions faithfully, and that these instructions were in accordance with the rules printed by the railroad company for his guidance.

He is much depressed at the accident to the train whose safety he was assigned to protect, but denis that he is solely responsible for the co lision in which thirteen persons lost their lives. Lawyer Waish said yesterday to a Sux reporter that no jury in America would convict his client when the facts of the case were prop-

"Herrick," he said. "was guilty of an error of judgment, but of nothing more culpable He ran back from his train, as directed by Conductor Wilkins, with torpedoes and a red and a white lamp. He placed the torpedoes on the track and they were exploded by the St. Louis express. The crew of the St. Louis express say they did not hear the explosions. We have affidavits from six residents of Hastings, who were near the track when the the engineers (three) examined at the inquest testified that if when passing a station they saw a red lamp on the platform they would stop. It was proved beyond a doubt that Herrick left his red lamp on the platform at Hastings when he went inside to light his eigar. James Donohoe, the engineer of the St. Louis Express, swore that he saw no red lamp. He his train he saw a man on the tracks swinging a white light.

DR. DEPEW FOR PRESIDENT AGAIN. His Nomination for the Seventh Time Makes

Talk at the Union League. Dr. Chauncey Mitchell Depew has served the Union League Club as President for the past six years, and was again nominated for that office by the nominating committee on Jan. 1. new's name headed the ticket for the seventh time.

Yestorday there was an unusually large number of men at the club house, and the nomination of Dr. Depew was thoroughly discussed. Dr. Depew is so popular that no man in the club would accept a nomination on an opposition ticket, for the only argument against Dr. Depew was that he had held the office of President six times already.

It has been customary until this year, for the President and other officers of the club to make up the ticket, but this method was found to be unsatisfactory, and on Dec. II a nominating committee was elected. The question as to what character the organization should maintain came up at this election. One set wanted more social factures and leas Hepublican politics. The other set dissented to won.

The "political ticket," consisting of George L. Whitman, Edward A. Quintard, William L. Strong, Charles B. Fosdick, Nathaniel A. Prentiss, Emerson Foote, and Thomas H. Wood, was elected, and on Jan. I posted their nominations, headed by Dr. Depew.

One of the members of the Union League Club, who was opposed to Dr. Depew's nomination, said last night: "It was generally understood that Dr. Depew was not to be renominated, and Mr. Bliss was mentioned as his successor Dr. Depew has served the club as President for six years with honor to himself and the club. I and many others believed that this was long enough, and that it was time to honor some other man. This was so generally understood that when the nominations were posted there was great surprise. I have since learned that he was nominated because the members of the committee could not agree on any other candidates. Dr. Depew is personally very popular in the club, and after discussing the other candidates and finding that it was impossible to unite on any other man he was renominated."

PREACHING ABOUT HIS COAL BILL The Rev. D. C. Potter Talks at the Deputy

Sherif Over the Heads of His People. Coal dealers and their unfortunate business methods was the text of a preliminary sermon which the Rev. D. C. Potter preached yesterday morning at his Tabernacie Baptist Church Strangers are at all times cordially invited to attend the services held in the church, but the Sheriff's officers who accepted the invitation number of days ago and remained in attend ance pretty steadily during the services and at other times are perhaps regarded as having forfeited their right to the accustomed cordiality. Their presence, in fact, had much t do with the objectionable business methods that formed the topic of Dr. Potter's remarks. when the coal bill of Rheinfrank & Co. reached the total of $1,726.35, and efforts to collect that amount were unsuccessful, the misunder standing was put in the hands of the Sheriff for adjustment, and his officers proceeded to take possession of the church building.

The trouble, Dr. Potter said yesterday, was most unfortunate. It had but the church in a false light in the eyes of the public, and i had given rise to much unpleasant commen and discussion. The action of the coal dealers was little less than amazing. Just because the treasurer of the church was taken ill one day, and was so prevented from keeping an appointment, the coal dealers had limmediately gone off and called in the Shariff.

"There was not the slightest cause," said Dr. Potter. "for them to resort to any such extraordinary measures. The church is abundantly able to meet any indebtedness that it may contract."

Dr. Potter. for them to resort to any such extraordinary measures. The church is abundantly able to meet any indebtedness that it may contract."

Dr. Potter then directed his remarks to the newspapers and the accounts that had been published in regard to the matter. The business, he said, was none of the public's; it concerned the church and its creditors, and them alone. He had refused to have anything to say to the newspapers. Any purported interviews with him, or with the sexton or the janitor, were perversions of the sacred truth.

Dr. Potter concluded by allowing his congregation to infer that the misunderstanding with the coal dealers had been amicably settled and that nothing more would be heard from it. If the Sheriff's officer attended the service yesterday, as authoritative reports had it that he would, he did not make himself conspicuous. The sexton said that the unwelcome visitor had not been there that day as far as he knew. He understood, he said, that the trouble was all settled. Mr. Sherwin, the assistant pastor, was also of the opinion that the matter had been settled. He had not seen the Sheriff's officer in the church or heard of his being there since the previous Wednesday.

Up to Saturday night Lawyer John Fonnel, the attorney for Mr. Rheinfrank, denied that there had been any settlement at all. Promissory notes had been offered by the church, but they were refused. The whole bill with costs, Mr. Fennell said, was now $1.978.57, and not one cent of it had been paid. The deputy sheriff had received orders to advertise the personal property of the church and sell it at auction if the bill was not settled immediately. Mr. Rheinfrank was out of town yesterday when a reporter called at his home, 325 East Fourth street. Mrs. Rheinfrank said that she understood from what Mr. Rheinfrank had said that no settlement had yet been made.

Joseph C. Williams, the treasurer of the church, was "busily engaged" yesterday afternoon in his apartment at 58 Irving place. He sent word that he expected to be enga

A FAIR FOR THE ACTORS' FUND.

It Will be a Big Thing of its Kind and $100,000 is the Sum They Want to Raise

The trustees of the Actors' Fund of America are making preparations to hold a fair in the Madison Square Garden during the first week in May. The object of the enterprise, accordng to the circular recently issued, is "to raise $100,000 for the permanent endowment of the only charity organization ever established in America to belp a profession, she members of which have always responded to every call made upon them to help others." The charity referred to is a proposed asy-

The charity referred to is a proposed asylum for the orphans of American actors. To insure the success of the fair nearly every theatrical manager of this city has signed a pledge to do all in his power, and to offer the services of his company, for the advancement of the cause.

The trustees of the Actors' Fund, at their meeting in June, elected as officers of the fair: A. M. Palmer. President: F. W. Sanger, Treasurer: Daniel Frohman and Charles W. Thomas, Secretaries: and A. B. do Frees Director-General. An honorary committee of 400 will lend its influence to the affair. The list includes the names of Senator Hill, tiev, and Mrs. Flower, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Clevaland. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Levi P. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Criamins, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Criamins, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and gres. J. R. Morgan, J. Seaver Page, Judge Pryor, Orlando K. Potter, and Cornelius Van Cott.

All the ladies of the theatrical profession at present in this city will meet on the stage of Palmer's Theatre some day next week to organize a woman's committee. The bexes at the Garden are to be sold at auction on Easter Monday. There will be several auctioneers. The first will be Dr. Chauncey Mitchell Depew, and he will be followed by other eminent comedians of this city, such as Wilson, De Wolf Hopper, and James Powers. Season tickets will cost $5 and admission tickets $1 each.

There will be a number of attractions, the principal of which will be a model of the World's Columbian Exposition. Music will be provided by the Old Guard band, the Vetropolitan orchestra, and a juvenile band of sixty pieces. THE VESUVIUS ARRIVES.

Mer Powers for Destruction to be Increase
With All Possible Maste,

The dynamite cruiser Vesuvius (which, by the way, never uses any dynamite whatever) the way, never uses any dynamite whatever) arrived at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Saturday afternoon, after a very rough voyage up the coast from Norfolk. She is now moored at the foot of Main street to await the arrival of the new compressed air appliances, which are being manufactured by the Grady Company of Brooklyn. The report that the Vesuvius was to be fitted with torpedo tubes is faise. Her commander. Lieut. Seaton Nchroeder, said to a Sun reporter yesterday that the alterations to be made on his ship were merely an improvement in the sir valves.

Since the present valves were put into the Vesuvius considerable progress has been made in that branch of mechanics and the Navy Department intended to keep the cruiser up to the times as far as her destructive powers were concerned. The new valves would not give any increased velocity to the projectiles, but would add immensely to the accuracy of the range. They were made on the same principle as the old ones, but with a different application of it. These valves were first made by the Dynamite Gun Company, which put the present eugines into the Vesuvius. They were tested a short time ago on a gun in England and gave remarkable results. The tubes are constructed to shoot a projectile containing 200 pounds of gun cotton, which will be exploded on contact.

Liout. Schroeder said that the Vesuvius could stand 8,000 yards from the forts of Valparaiso and put shells into the city with unfailing accuracy, and could rely on her speed to keep out of the way of the Chillian torpedo boats. The alterations on the cruiser, he said, were ordered to be made with all possible haste.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—Shortly after 8 o'clock

last night a fire occurred in the varnish room of a four-story brick building on La Salle of a four-story brick building on La Salle street occupied by the Joyce Carriage Benair Company, the Paynter Manufacturing Company, and a paint shop. The blaze was due to spontaneous combustion. The entire Fire Department was called out, and, after a stubborn fight of forty minutes, succeeded in bringing the blaze under control. At 9 o'clock part of the east wall fell, burying four firemen and a citizen under the ruins. Andrew Kerins, driver of Assistant Chief Weish's vehicle, was buried under a hot mass of brick and timbers, and lived but half an hour after being extricated. Wm. Gallahan, a citizen, was struck on the head by flying debris and seriously injured. Philip Kirsch, a truckman, received four terrible gashes on his head and was internally injured. He will die, Perry Wall, a reel driver, had his thigh broken and was naternally injured. Assistant Chief Welsh was slightly injured about the legs.

APPOINTED ADMINISTRATOR OF THE DIOCESE OF BROOKLYN.

Certain Powers were Delegated by the Dr ing Sishop to Pather Milebell, but After the Sishop's Dea h the Archbishop Made the Vicar-General Administrator.

When Bishop Loughlin died last Tuesday one of the priests at the episcopal residence in Greene and Clermont avenues announced to the reporters that Archtishop Corrigan had appointed the Rev. James H. Mitchell administrator of the diocese. It was said that the his death, and that the Archbishop, seeing that Bishop Loughlin could not recover, named Father Mitchell administrator. Every one believed that Father Mitchell had been made administrator, and congratulations poured in on the young priest. Consequently, when it became known yesterday in Catholic circles in Brooklyn that Archbishop Corrigan had the day before made the Very Rev. Michael May administrator there was much surprise. Father May was Bishop Loughlin's Vicar-General for the German portion of the diocese's Catholic population.

Yesterday all sorts of stories about the appointment were in circulation. It was said that some of the Brooklyn priests objected to Archbishop Corrigan that Father Mitchell was too young for the office, and that the appointment was an injustice to Father May. Mgr. McDonnell, Archbishop Corrigan's secretary, told a Sun reporter yesterday that the Archbishop had never appointed Father Mitchell

THE VERY REV. MICHAEL MAY.

"Last Sunday afternoon." said the Monsignor, "the Archbishop and myself visited Bishop Loughlin. The newspapers said that the Bishop was in a critical condition, and as the Archbishop was about to go out of town he determined to see the Bishop before he went. Although the Bishop appeared to be very weak, the Archbishop did not believe his death was near. He thought that Bishop Loughlin was suffering from one of those spells so frequent with him during the past two years, and that he would recover from it after a short time. He advised the Bishop to take a good rest, and suggested that the Bishop delegate temporarily powers to some priest who could thus attend to routine dutles during the Bishop's illness. Father Mitchell was in the house with the Bishop at the time, and it was decided to have him act for the Bishop. Father Mitchell was not made administrator. He was simply empowered to grant dispensations and perform other duties of a similar character. The Archishop could not have appointed an alumnistrator then because Bish p Loughlin was still alive. In fact, the Archbishop had no idea that he would die. "According to the decrees of the second council of Baltimore, the Archbishop as head of the province, is empowered to appoint an administrator for a diocese that has no Bishop. The Brooklyn diocese had a Bishop last Sunday, and therefore the Archbishop doed not have made Father Mitchell selministrator on that day. When the Bishop died, the Archbishop, exercising his powers, named Vicar-General May administrator. It is the custom to make the Vicar-General of the diocese administrator when the Bishop dies."

It was not until yesterdy that it became known that the Archbishop had appointed Father May administrator. He will direct the niffairs of the diocese until the Pope has aupointed a new Bishog. Father May is about pleasing to the general body of the priests, the manchanch of the Holy Truity in Montress avenue for many years. He is the most conspicuous of the temman elerny in Brooklyn. It was not until yesterdy that it became handlanch of the field Truity in Montress avenue for many years. He is the most conspicuous of the temman elerny in Brooklyn. "It was not until years of the field man objection to Father May's adj determined to see the Bishop before he went. Although the Bishop appeared to be very

of a parish which is by no means therman, "Bishop Longhim esteemed lather May so highly that he made him he of his Vicarsa-General. He is an ideal priest, and I have always heard his brother elergymen speak of him in the highest terms. There should be no object to Father May himself. If there is any disastisation it is among a few priests whose opinions do not value the sentiments of the general heely of the clerky. By virtue of his office of Vicar-tieneral lather May was entitled to the administrationing. I believe the story of disastisfaction was started by some irresponsified discessing cossiper."

It is probable that hishop Longhlin's successor will not be appointed for several months. The discessing consulters and irremovable rectors will meet shortly and select the names of three origines when they deem worthy of the appointment. The bishops of the province will then act on these names, and the result of their action, which might be the selection of three other names chosen by the priests will also go to Rome. From them the Pope will probably choose Bishop Loughlin's successor. In Homethe record of every candidate will be investigated, and, as this will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months will take much time, it may be many months the forest the Pope and the record of every candidate will be investigated, and, as this will take much time, it may be many months the forest the Pope names the new Bishop to Brooklyn. Many are mentioned as likely to get the appointment. Those acquainted with the situation say that one of those mentioned in Thursday's Sux will probably be named by the Pope.

In all the Brooklyn churches gesterday prayers wore offered for the repose of the soul of Bishop Loughlin.

THE "LALOOS" BROKEN UP. Three Infant Burglars Caught Robbins a Showcase in Broadway.

The future posperity of the "Bleecker street Laloos" is threatened. Three of the leading members of the gang are now in custody. They are Joseph, alias "Plug." He believes that it may have been placed on the sill of the vault, the person who put it there then taking a hasty departure.

THE "FRIENDS" DID NOT MOVE. Blank Astonishment at a Clergyman's An-

CANAJORARIE, Jan. 3.-A few days ago a wellknown citizen of the town of Sharon, Schoharle county, who had held many town offices, cluding that of Justice of the Peace, died, and the residents of that pertion of the county went to the funeral. It soon became evident that the relatives and friends of the dead man would more than fill the little house where he passed his declin not years, and at the proper time the local of rayman, who was to conduct the services, opened the door and said:

"All of the friends connected with the deceased by conganguinity will please take the rooms on the right side of the house, and those connected with him by affinity will kindly go into the left rooms."

The minister then withdrew into the house, but the "friends" did not move. They looked into one another's faces in blank astonishment and wondered what was the meaning of the minister's big words. At length he was obliged to make a second announcement, to the effect that those related to the deceased by blood and those by marriage should occupy different sides of the house, and then the crowd began to enter. cluding that of Justice of the Peace, died, and
